

TOMMY BOY

Tommy is a Sophomore in high school. He's a nice looking teen, who loves to be around his friends. He is outgoing, except when it comes to girls. Tommy's talking to his friend Ivan after school while waiting for the bus.

Dude, you'll never believe what happened to me today. I sprang out of bed and said to myself, "Today is going to be a great day!" I got in the shower and I threw on my clothes and headed out. When I got on the bus, the girls seemed to look at me differently. So I looked back at them and they giggled. I was on top of the world! I had a presentation due in first period... BUT I wasn't about to let that ruin my day. A few moments later, walking down the hallway, it was like a movie, almost every group of girls turned to look at me. I got to my first period class and sat down. It's almost like I could feel Jamie, that hottie that sits behind me in class, staring at the back of my head...It felt great! And of course, I was called first to read my presentation to the class, so I strolled up to the front of the room ...I actually winked at this girl...man was I getting bold! This was like a dream, and right when I was getting ready to start my presentation, the teacher called me aside...I thought I'd gone too far with the winking, Dude, when she started talking to me, my stomach dropped to my feet. (pause) I turned away from the class, swallowed my pride and zipped-up my fly.
